UNIVERSITY MATTERS.

New Regent—Chili in the Medical Department—The Alumni Treason.

Governor Booth has appointed D. O. Mills a Regent of the State University, instead of Samuel Merritt, resigned. Mr. Mills is a resident of Sacramento—a banker chiefly.

Professor Morse, a Massachusetts man, will give a public lecture before the students of that institution, tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Those having the time and inclination should hear what he may have to say.

At a meeting of the Neohuman Literary Society on Monday night, the following officers were elected: President, John Bice; Vice President, H. O. Lang; Secretary, C. B. Overacker; Treasurer, H. M. Pond; Editor of Scrap-book, M. Jacobs; Assistant Editor, William Pearson.

The Register of the University for 1874 is out.

The boys out there are going to debate the question of whether the word Alumni is derived from alum, alumina, or luminary. Alum pure and simple, is used as an astringent in medicine, hence we incline to the belief that college alumni come from something else—they don't dry up worth a cent. Alumina is more likely the word—the chief ingredient of common clay. "Sometimes called pure clay." Webster is careful to say that the clay is only "sometimes" pure. He says that when moistened with water, it "forms a plastic mass." "When" is good; gatherings of Alumni are usually moistened with something else. Luminary pertains more particularly to heavenly bodies that give light; "sometimes" to tallow candles, but midnight oil is rather far-fetched. Alum is used in the manufacture of candles to give them solidity—prevent them from having the summer complaint. Just now being fruit season, the University boys will naturally incline to alum. Alum is also good for the gums, and those youth in the act of cutting teeth, will also stand up for alum. We shall look with interest to a report of the debate.

The following item, clipped from the Chronicle this morning, indicates the wide-spreading usefulness of our University: "The Government and University of Chili have formally recognized the diplomas of the Medical Department of the University of California. The Medical Department of the University of Chili is not adapted to a thorough medical course, and all the students desirous of such a course will drift this way."

The Best.
It is always the cheapest in the end to purchase the best. This rule will hold good in the purchase of anything, but especially is it true in the matter of Sewing Machines, that indispensable article to a complete household, next to a baby; and we verily believe that there are women who would rather have a Sewing Machine than have a baby. Well, naturally, the Grover & Baker is the superior machine, local option or no local option. There never will be a machine gotten up to beat the Grover & Baker. Mr. P. E. Davis, No. 1012 Broadway, is the Oakland agent for this celebrated machine. He sells them on the installment plan if desirable.

IMPORTANT ENTERPRISE.

Terra-Cotta Works to be Established in Oakland with Capital to Back.

There will soon be commenced on a scale of importance, at the corner of Washington and Alameda streets, East Oakland, an enterprise practically new to the State, and which will take a prominent part in the work of house-building, garden ornamentation, and the like improvements. The term terra cotta is Italian, and literally means baked clay, but the article used in its manufacture is superior to the common potter's clay. Terra cotta is the finest of fire brick work, and susceptible of the greatest variety of uses. For house fronts, it is of late years largely employed in the construction of the finest buildings in Europe. Vienna presents the grandest array of architecture on the face of the earth, and the massive ornamentation consequent is largely composed of terra cotta. The same material is employed in the finish of a number of leading buildings of London. Terra cotta is as durable as iron, and of course so much cheaper as to warrant its general use wherever manufactured. For the construction of vases, and statuary for gardens, parks, and lawns, terra cotta must ever be suitable, cheap and popular.

The two gentlemen engaged in starting the works proposed, are now getting their hand in by making molds of the materials to be used. The bulk of which is found in large quantities at different points in the Contra Costa hills. They have already completed the models for several styles of vases, small fountains and the like—imitations of fruit, flowers, the heads of lions, etc. Enough is seen to prove their artistic qualifications for turning out a superior variety of work. These men are rather shy about public mention, and prefer to have nothing said about their "studio" at present, but we deem the matter of too much importance not to be worthy of some notice, and promise to acquaint our readers with every stage of the undertaking. They expect to make a fire-proof roofing as cheaply as shingles are furnished, and as durable as the ages.

The Way He Got Out of It.
A jovial Teutonic friend, who is well known in Oakland, was walking down Broadway not long since, when he chanced to meet his wife and daughter in company with another lady, whom he had not seen for some time. Without, apparently, noticing the presence of his wife, he stepped up to the lady friend and taking her hand saluted her with a rousing kiss. Then, noticing the astonishment of his wife, he exclaimed: "Mine Gott in Himmel, if I'd known mine wife was here I wouldn't a done it." Then turning to the lady, he said—putting his finger on the side of his nose: "Ah mine wife was here, dat don't count."

AMERICAN EAGLE SHOT.

The First Blood for the Society to Prevent Cruelty to Animals.

We have neglected from day to day to make mention of the painful part of the case of supposed cruelty to animals, tried and dismissed last week. Our item at present, however, only grew out of that case. The Society was suddenly seized with the divine inspiration that makes kindness to brutes the first duty of man. Hence these tears. Having failed to criminate a Chinaman for picking chickens in a manner not altogether pleasant to the fowls, the Society or its informers, became grandly indignant and vengeful: the very eagle-bird of freedom was gone none too good for their unsatiated appetites. Now, it so happened that for a number of months a large eagle had been caged somewhere on the block bounded by Ninth, Tenth, Broadway and Washington streets. The attentions to the bird were reported as being so slight as a rule, that it was constantly suffering for something to eat. The owner was requested to either take better care of it, or donate it to some institution that made a business of keeping pets for exhibition—such as Badger's or Woodward's. Now, the good points—aye, the very existence of this bird were known to very few people, and the owner did offer it to Mr. Badger, but who wanted it boxed and brought to him in shape. This incensed the proprietor, to think there would be trouble and expense in giving it away after keeping it a year for a fancy price, so what did he do but make a target of the poor thing, doing it to death with a six-shooter right in its own house! Here was the worst case of cruelty to animals since the wild shooting on the streets of Frisco last week. We have forgotten how many shots were fired before the proud bird gave up the ghost, but it was sad to think of. Had the Society done right, it would have taken charge of the bird and saved its life to future usefulness; but the time demanded a victim—blood was wanted. Score round number two for the S. T. P. C., &c., etc.

CALIFORNIA IN NEVADA.

The season is so far advanced that the number of conventions already held are a fair criterion of what the campaign will consist of. It is clear that most of the States east of the Rocky Mountains will run chiefly regular Republican and Democratic tickets, and whatever the issues may be, the promised breaking up of old party lines and names is not likely to be realized right away. This by way of premise to the political situation nearer home.

On the surface, this is quite an "off year" for California; that is, there are no elections to be held outside of local option, which is a purely social question. There is a regular old-fashioned skirmish however, that California cannot be counted out of. That is the State election in Nevada "everything from Constable up," as they say it, is to be held in November. Already the birds of passage—not excluding the most of the candidates themselves—have mostly taken flight from the hotels and other houses of the metropolis, to the higher if not more pleasant altitudes of Silverland. During the past winter, most if not all the slates for the season were arranged at "the bay," as the saying goes, and now all there is left to do is to place the rank and file in position for final action. It is a funny business; a very funny proceeding; but the position of the Sagebrush State, and the condition of society pertaining, mostly accounts for it. We doubt if there are five persons (no comparison with Sodom, etc.), inhabiting that land from preference, excepting "Indians not taxed." But the roughest remark we ever heard made about Washoe society, was by a California-Nevada man last winter. He said he did not think there was a single voter in Nevada who could not be bought; he thought there might be about ten in California. Some allowance must be made for that vein of American humor (otherwise exaggeration) running through him; aside from this, he was a newspaper-political wire-worker of the most energetic stamp, and perhaps knew how it was himself. He will make himself specially useful over there, until the last round of the campaign; then we will see him at "the bay" again till centennial year. Sharon is about as much a resident of Nevada as Stewart or Nye; it is not likely that Nye's "angle eye" will ever see sage-brush again. They all "do the grand in a foreign land," and Nevada knows them no more. Tom Fitch has gone glimmering, and Jones may pass through "on the morning train" semi-occasionally. DeLong has secured himself a fine residence in Oakland in advance, so that "do or die," he will in some sort be provided for. The Japanese mission may have been a satisfactory thing after all. Kendall (their Congressman) after leaving the State in despair, and feeling about for a Territorial delectation, fell back on sage-brush and was elected by a scratch, and re-elected by a false move of his opponent. He will have "a place for his family" at the bay in due time. That standing candidate, Tom Williams, is oftener on the corner of Montgomery and California streets, than in Virginia. Go through the entire list, past and present, of the ins and outs of that "rotten borough," and the powers of the kaleidoscope would fail to compare in rapid change and color with Nevada's public men. Yet no State in the Union manages to keep itself somewhat more prominently before the great American people. What it lacks in brains it makes up in money and cheek.

MRS. BISHOP'S BENEFIT AGAIN.

The TRIBUNE is pleased to note that steps are being taken towards a formal and material recognition of the earnest efforts of Mrs. H. E. Bishop in behalf of the cause of Temperance in this city. As usual, the women are at the bottom of it, and what opposition is encountered, and there is some displayed, comes of course from the men; yea, even from some who were prominent figure-heads in the Local Option campaign. This dislike to render a fitting acknowledgment of the invaluable services of Mrs. B. arises undoubtedly from two causes: The Turner element on the one hand, desire to reap all the glory and loose change there is lying around; and another class are too mercenary to donate where their coin is not likely to return cent per cent. The U. N. represents the pettifogger clique—because it is supposed the money is there, of course. But those who are friendly to Mrs. Bishop, and not jealous of her great popularity, are determined that the professors of the "faith" shall at least show their hands in this matter, and it is hardly possible that the temperance people will add insult to injury by refusing to arrange a beneficiary entertainment of some sort for this worthy lady. We like to see honest effort rewarded, and Mrs. Bishop has certainly labored earnestly, intelligently and effectively in a cause in which so many people here have pretended to be deeply interested. She has received no remuneration, and, we presume, asks none; but that she is justly entitled to some acknowledgment more tangible than empty words, which mean nothing, no fair-minded person will deny. And he who would begrudge her this must be despicably mean.

Mrs. Bishop has devoted her entire time, for months, to working up the great movement which has swept over the entire State, with whirlwind velocity, and wherever she has gone, to Sacramento, Vallejo and other places, she has been graciously permitted to bear her own expenses, and receive not so much as a collection. We are not acquainted with her financial condition, but there are not many, even wealthy people, who would think they could afford to devote time, talent and money in any cause, however grand and good, without recompense. Of course, the TRIBUNE's efforts in Mrs. Bishop's behalf are purely gratuitous. We never heard her complain of ill treatment or neglect, but many of her personal friends think that her efforts have not received the consideration to which they are justly entitled. For the reputation of the town, we hope the temperance people will take speedy steps towards rendering "honor to whom honor is due."

DON'T GUSH.

The Transcript rather slops over in its notice of those representatives in Congress who merely did their duty to their constituents. This Oakland harbor improvement is not an enterprise to be ashamed of; that is, in view of the novelty of the undertaking and the opposition to it in this State, a certain impression is out among the uninformed that it is not quite a legitimate and needed enterprise. To those who have made it a study, there are no two opinions in the premises, hence the labors of Sargent and Page were but a part of their bounden public duty. If it has become a matter of surprise that a public servant should perform that duty faithfully, then we might get excited ourselves. The gentlemen in question will be suitably remembered by their constituents, no doubt, in the fullness of time. Until then, the best thing for them is to go on in well-doing, and all will be well. But, children, try and not gush. When you see two school-girls meet in public and get all mixed up in a mass of hair, ribbons, smiles, tears and saliva—practically "telescoped" with sudden good feeling—the verb to gush is graphically set forth.

The Transcript says that Alameda county owes a debt of gratitude to Hon. H. F. Page, because of the $100,000 appropriation. If we remember aright Mr. Page owed a debt of gratitude to Alameda county for his election. Hence, honors are easy.

THE LOCAL OPTION PETITION.

In the advertised list of signers to the Local Option Petition the names of several parties appear as having twice signed the same. Several of these have satisfactorily explained the "coincidence." The following has been handed in for publication:

OAKLAND, June 24, 1874.
To the Evening Tribune:
I see by referring to your published list of names signed to a Petition to the Board of Supervisors, for an election on Local Option for Oakland township, that the name of W. F. Parkinson appears twice. This cannot be so; and whether J. J. Hamilton, who has gotten up this list, made this blunder intentionally or not, I am not prepared to say. I will inform him, and all others interested, that I signed my name to that petition, and so also did W. F. Parkinson. And I would say further, that I think all right-minded men who have a particle of fairness about them, would see at a glance the way public sentiment and feeling is tending in reference to this liquor question, that it needs no repetition of names to put a quietus to the traffic.

W. F. PARKINSON.
CHAS. A. WELLSMORE telegraphs to his newspaper employers the following dispatch from Washington:
The passage of the Oakland Harbor appropriation bill is considered a test of the Republican strength of the Pacific Coast delegation in Congress. It also corroborates the former despatch of this agency at the time when the Associated Press declared the project dead.

Prize Boot Maker.

There is a difference between a boot-maker and a boot-seller. Anybody who is a good boot and shoe clerk can sell a boot, if he gets hold of a customer who wants to buy, but it is by no means every one who can make a good boot. We have a prize boot-maker in Oakland—a man who can make a boot that will satisfy the wearer in every particular, or he needn't take them. We refer to Mr. D. Smith, on Seventh street, between Broadway and Washington. He is simply hard to beat making a boot. His prices are moderate, too.

Our Public Schools.

The Board of Education met last night to complete the choice of teachers for the ensuing school year. A few bills against the department were allowed; the resignation of Dr. Bolton as a member of the Board was accepted, and the following completes the list: Lafayette School—Mrs. Vrooman, eighth grade. Adams Street School—Mrs. E. W. Buel, seventh grade. Drawing—Mrs. Brodt. Music—Miss E. P. Brown. German—Prof. Seehle. Juniors—High and Irving Schools, E. G. Jones. Lafayette and Cosmopolitan Schools, Mr. Peel. Lincoln School, Mr. Bahmforth. Harrison School, Mrs. Peel. Prescott School, Mrs. Allen. Franklin and Adams Street School, Mr. Dyer. Grove Street School, Mr. Aldrich.

West Oakland Improvements.

We met the Semi-Tropical Press man to-day, and he says the foundations for seven new houses have been commenced since last Saturday—one of which is for a hotel. He says they are to have a watering place at the Point, too.

Smelling Round.

The editor of the S. F. Wine Dealers' Gazette was in Oakland this morning. He says there is as much liquor drunk in Maine as ever.

Our Dry Goods House.

A new era in the mercantile feature of Oakland was inaugurated when the mammoth Dry Goods House of O'Connell & Co. opened on the "wrong side of Broadway." Not only was that hitherto dormant side of our thoroughfare infused with new life and business activity then, but the dry goods business received an impetus, and assumed a significance which it hitherto did not possess. For years the people of Oakland were accustomed to going to San Francisco to make their purchases in this line; and so addicted to this habit had they become that the Oakland merchants could keep only a certain class of goods on their shelves. This habit of running across the bay for whatever they wanted did not justify our merchants in doing otherwise. But Messrs. O'Connell & Co. succeeded in revolutionizing all this by establishing a house where the best class of goods could be obtained, but actually sold them lower than the San Francisco houses. The people of Oakland soon discovered this, and concluded not to expend a dollar or two in fare, lunches, etc., for the innocent amusement of wasting their time going to San Francisco to purchase an article they could purchase at home at the same and even at lower rates. The consequence is that to this house is due the credit of bringing about this desirable reformation, which, as we say, has given an impetus to the dry goods business in Oakland, and made it one of the most important mercantile features of this city. Their being on what is called "the wrong side of Broadway," has partially aided them in doing this, as rents are lower there, and consequently they can afford smaller profits. And yet they have one of the finest, if not the finest, store room in Oakland. When a lady on the west side of Broadway is convinced that by simply crossing the street she can procure what she wants at a low figure, it is not at all difficult for her to exercise herself a little to do so. Our Oakland ladies aren't half so lazy as some people imagine, especially when there is a dollar to be saved, and they know they can do so by going to O'Connell & Co's. We invite the attention of the reader to the announcement these gentlemen make to-day in our advertising columns.

ELOPEMENT MATTERS.

A Young Man Thwarted and Threshed for Trying to Get Away with one of Alameda's Fair.

The quiet groves of Alameda are just now disturbed by other matters than local option. Cupid is busted in the snoot, his bow and arrows scattered about, and as hard to find over there as a needle in a hay-stack. The story in brief is this: A young gentleman and lady have been in favor of license for some time, but the "old man"—the father of the girl voted no license so strongly as to prevent the boy from getting a single smile at his house. The lassie's mother to the contrary. So it was arranged to head off the irate father last night. The lover of the girl came over to Oakland from San Francisco by the 10:30 train, continuing his journey to Alameda in a hack, with a view of eloping with her. Arrived at the home of his expected bride, who should he meet but the boss? The young man was immediately knocked down and booted severely, and left to spend the balance of the night in a way quite contrary to his expectations. If the boy possess the usual spirit in such cases the end is not yet; with mother and daughter both on his side, his chances of success are sooner or later assured.

POLICE COURT.

This institution continues as dry as a last year's crow-nest: nothing but a good clabbing or slyling of rocks will make an item. We advised Capt. Tarbett to discharge the entire force for a week or so, and go fishing himself, as an experiment; then, if business should revive so as to justify it, he could hire them over again. Judge Jayne might as well have remained at Mount Diablo—there would be more "drunks" to operate on out there than here. Present company always excepted. One case was disposed of this morning—$6—and another set for to-morrow in view of emergencies. Six dollars will do more toward paying expenses of Court and Clerk. Capt. Tarbett is struggling along on a prisoner from San Quentin, a witness at the instance of the District Court. Mr. Copp is supposed to know something about Senator Sepulveda's case—the man to be tried for murder.

A Moving Artist.

East Oakland is favored by a call from a traveling photographer—one of those sons of guns on wheels. His wagon is anchored on the hill-side, presenting a broadside view of the valley crossing the middle of town. This fellow is to be envied. If he be good-looking, his advantages are overwhelming. He can move about the country and make raids on farmers' daughters, and always have variety. A photographer is a great institution anyhow.

Oakland Oyster House.

There is no use of talking—Campbell's restaurant, on Seventh street, Bartlett's Building, is the place to get an oyster stew, or oysters in any shape you desire. There you can get the finest, fattest, juiciest Shrewsbury transplanted oysters, and, indeed, anything you want in the shape of bivalves. As for steaks, chops, coffee, and all this—why Campbell is a world beater. Try him and you'll be convinced.
